ELEGANCE IN THE MOUNTAINS

Four generations have succeeded one another at the head of this family business, which over the years has become a benchmark in the construction of top of the range made-to-measure chalets in Savoie and Haute-Savoie. These buildings embody not only expertise but also the art of luxury mountain living.

Founded in 1950, Grosset-Janin cultivates a certain idea of luxury, combining authenticity and elegance. Its buildings boast a recognisably majestic aesthetic and meticulous finishes, the hallmarks of fine craftsmanship.

The post-and-beam chalet, an emblematic element of mountain architectural heritage, is built here in solid wood. This traditional construction system was chosen because it eliminates the need for load-bearing walls, allowing total freedom of interior design, giving free rein to every creative idea and every desire, with no limits!

The exposed timber frame invites itself into the living areas with its robust, enveloping presence, becoming a decorative element in its own right. Its perfect geometry attracts the eye and invites the senses to awaken to the woody scents and velvety feel of the wood grain.

With its pure lines, noble materials and large picture windows opening onto the fabulous outdoors, the Grosset-Janin contemporary chalet is a statement of character and a taste for the finer things in life.

The builder has made ultra-customisation its trademark. Each project, whether traditional or more unusual, is custom-designed by the company's in-house design office to meet the wishes of its customers. The interior design department is dedicated to creating the right atmosphere and designing wooden fittings and furniture.

Every piece of wood, from the frame and windows to the staircases and furniture, is specially manufactured in Grosset-Janin's workshops at the foot of Mont Blanc.

With its expertise in wood and complex structures, Grosset-Janin can guarantee the high quality of its creations, offering unique and personal designs that will stand the test of time.
